Is Known to Be on Good Terms with Quirinal and to Desire to Heal Breach

(By Henry Wood, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Sept. 3.—Cardinal Giacomo Della Chiesa, archbishop of Bologna, and former assistant papal secretary of state, was today elected pope, succeeding the late pontiff, Pius X. The election was on the ninth ballot. With all of the ceremony prescribed by the century old traditions of the Catholic church, the new occupant of the fisherman's throne received the first adoration of the cardinals in the conclave who had balloted since Monday in election.

The new pontiff chose to be known as Benedictus XV and will later designate the date for his coronation.

U. S. Cardinals Absent.

With the conclave called while all Europe was involved in a devastating war, which was largely responsible for the death of Pope Pius from a broken heart, the election of Benedictus XV will go down in history as taking place at one of the most critical times in history. Several foreign cardinals have not yet arrived in Rome. Among those absent are Cardinal Gibbons and Cardinal O'Connor, of the United States. In the conclave were fifty-seven members of the sacred college, a majority of them Italians.

The election of Cardinal Della Chiesa to the papal throne is not only a tribute to the late pontiff, but also to his closest advisor, Cardinal Merry Del Val. As assistant secretary of state and later as a cardinal and archbishop of Venice, Cardinal Della Chiesa was one of Merry Del Val's most ardent supporters and in return enjoyed the fullest confidence of the secretary of state. Being on the best of terms with the Italian government, it is considered certain that the new pope will carry on the policy of Pope Pius looking toward the healing of the long standing breach between the quirinal and the vatican.

Follow Old Customs.

When the scrutiny of votes today showed the election of Cardinal Della Chiesa, the secretary of the conclave, masters of ceremonies and the sacristan of the vatican were at once admitted to the Sistine chapel. In accordance with the old traditions, the cardinal deacon accompanied by the heads of other orders of the cardinals, presented themselves and asked whether the election was accepted. With the reply in the affirmative, the canopies over the thrones of all other cardinals dropped to the floor, that of the newly elected pontiff alone remaining in place. With the admission of Cardinal Della Chiesa's priest, the new pontiff was then clad in the white robe which was in readiness in a cabinet adjoining the chapel.

Cardinals Adore Pontiff.

Attired in his robes as head of the church, Pope Benedictus then ascended the temporary papal throne where he received the adoration of the cardinals and gave his benedictions. The cardinals first knelt and kissed the foot of the new pope, then his hand, and at the last were embraced by him.

These ceremonies concluded, the ring of St. Peter, which had been in charge of the cardinal camerlengo, was presented to Pope Benedictus. Precedent prescribed that the cardinals shall then retire to their cells until public announcement of the election is made. The walls of the conclave were then broken.

Was Born in 1854.

Cardinal Della Chiesa was born at Pedil near Genoa in Italy in 1854. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1878 and went to Madrid as secretary of the nunciature in 1883, remaining there until 1887. He returned to Rome and acted as a minor official in the office of the papal secretary of state. In 1901 the

Schmitz and La Follette Urged by Progressive Democrats and Republicans to Take the Field

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 3.—

With Paul Hustung still leading Kearney by 2,000 votes, the democratic nomination for United States senator is in doubt. It is believed the Mayville man will win, but should there be anything of a slump in ten counties still to be heard from, his Racine competitor may pass him.

Hustung is the only progressive candidate on either ticket who seems to have the better of it. The latest returns are: Hustung, 24,743; Kearney, 22,792. McGovern's lead seems safely beyond the power of later returns and the second choice votes to change it. Latest figures are: McGovern, 25,875; Bancroft, 18,971; Morris, 18,094. Returns at the same hour place Philipp's plurality at from 10,000 to 15,000. It is claimed that Henry Johnson, state treasurer, is the only progressive republican state official who will probably be re-nominated. Karel undoubtedly wins over Aylward by at least 5,000.

Discussion of the second choice votes in the republican senatorial primary is current, and the most general opinion is that they cannot change the result. Morris probably has polled a majority of second choice votes cast by Strange and Eastbrook and Burke. That would eliminate Bancroft, the bulk of whose second choice votes, being stalwart, are very certain to be found for McGovern.

There is much talk of progressive democrats and republicans uniting on an independent candidate for governor. The name of Adolph Schmitz, former candidate for governor, has been suggested. There is some talk, unauthorized, of Senator La Follette resigning and becoming a candidate for governor.

The Milwaukee Journal is starting a movement to secure progressive republican support for Hustung in his fight for the senate, should he prove to be nominated.

NO QUARANTINE CASE WHEN SCHOOLS OPEN

For the first time in years, according to Health Commissioner J. M. Furstman, La Crosse public schools opened with not a single quarantine case in the city.

"La Crosse's health record for the opening day of school," said Dr. Furstman this morning, "is unusually clean. We have not a single case of contagious disease on our books."

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

ENGLAND.—Communication with the continent in danger of interruption. Published casualty lists indicate British losses only about eight per cent of totals engaged. New troops being instructed in use of guns, all ranges being used every daylight hour. War office considers general situation satisfactory.

FRANCE.—With government established at Bordeaux, Paris has been completely prepared for siege, forts are manned and military in control. Heaviest fighting today is along line from Montdidier to Roye to Noyon with cavalry fighting between Compeigne and Soissons. German aeroplanes which had dropped bombs on Paris shot down at Compeigne and two German officers killed.

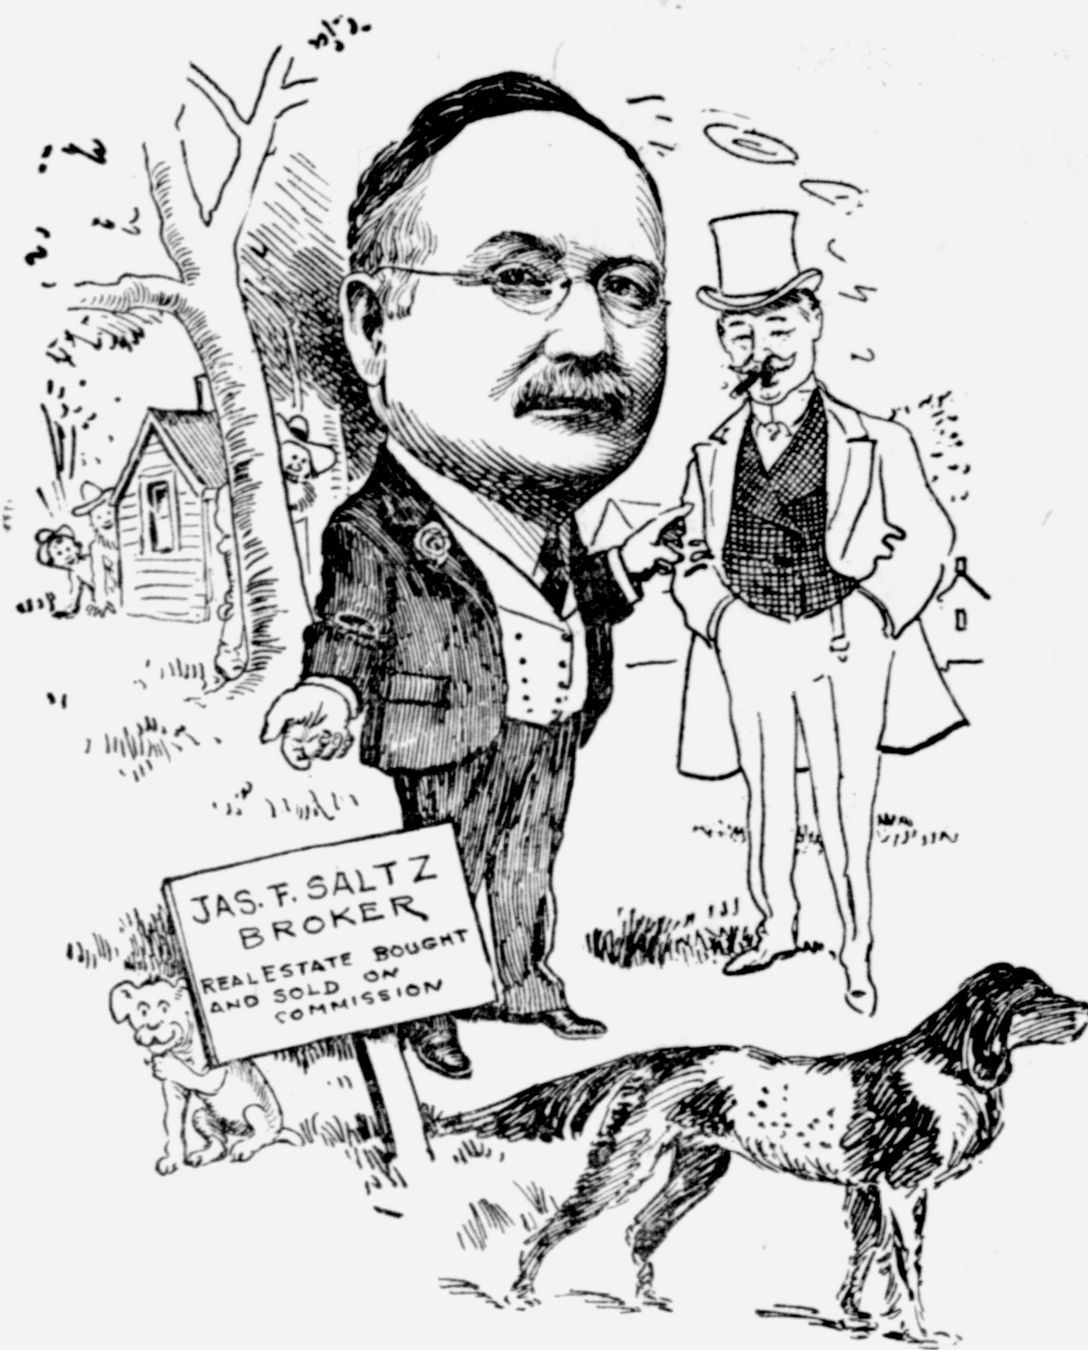

RUSSIA.—Attempt of Konigsberg garrison to execute successful sortie repulsed with heavy losses. Austrian defeat reported conclusive and Austrians retreating in disorder to their fortified positions along the San river. Russians reported as having assumed the offensive all along the line.

BELGIUM.—Indications that Germany really intends to attempt to besiege Antwerp multiply. King Albert is understood to have arranged with the British general staff to co-operate with the British in certain contingencies.

GERMANY.—General staff official announcements insist that the war office plans are working out as intended. New lists of casualties as posted indicate that the losses have been even greater than was feared.

AUSTRIA.—War office while admitting that Lemberg was evacuated to the Russians, insists that this action was taken to permit the occupation of a more advantageous strategic position.

"GOOD OLD DAYS" MEN NOMINATED FOR LEGISLATURE

Hambrecht in Assembly Together with Man for Whom Interests Got Special Train to Get Vote

Incomplete returns from the state indicate that many of the "good old days" reactionaries have been nominated to the legislature.

In many instances they are men who were put out of political life by the people in 1909.

Among the old timers who will go back is William Reader of Langlade county, who sprang into the political limelight during the election of United States Senator Stephenson.

Reader is the man, whom it was later divulged at the Stephenson investigation, was sent from Milwaukee to Madison by special train to insure his being there to vote for "Uncle Ike."

F. W. Kubasta, Lincoln county, is another "nineteen-niner" who will return to the assembly. He was appointed postmaster at Merrill, Wis., through the influence of Stephenson.

A. G. Beebe and George J. Leicht, Marathon county, are classified as stalwarts as are Assemblyman A. J. Whitcomb, Oconto; Lawrence Whitte, Rock; M. J. Wallrich, Shawano, and Martin Battis of Winnebago.

On the senatorial ticket will be William Bray of Winnebago county, manager of Taft's Wisconsin campaign two years ago, and others.

George E. Hambrecht, Wood county, was in the assembly in 1909 and was closely identified with the reactionaries.

CALL OFF THE CARNIVAL

It should not be necessary for the retail merchants of La Crosse to present to the city council their petition in opposition to the proposed carnival promoted by the Interstate Fair association. The unanimity of their protest should move the fair directors to abandon the project without further parley.

The interests of the fair association are so nearly identical with those of the merchants that an incidental issue like the carnival must not be permitted to exist. When the fair has needed funds from time to time, the merchants have contributed. The fair could not live without their co-operation. They are entitled to consideration.

The position of the theaters can not fairly be assailed. They are entitled to just treatment. It would be as just for the fair association to start a dry goods or hardware store during fair week, as to compete down town with the theaters.

But the chief point of the whole controversy is that the carnival is a damage to the city. Under the contract which the association proposes, eighty per cent of the receipts would be taken out of the city. This is always the case. It is local influence working behind an enterprise the end of which is that money which should remain in circulation in the local trade is taken away without a particle of compensation to the spenders.

We suggest that the fair directors declare the carnival off. The dispute has been friendly up to this point. To keep good will and harmony is worth so much that it must not be sacrificed in order to enrich the fair association by $300 through a method of the economic unsoundness of which has been so thoroughly demonstrated.

GERMANS ABANDON SIEGE OF BELFORT AND HURRY NORTH

FRENCH TO ADVANCE THEIR LINES

Expected to Assume Offensive Against 40,000 Germans Left in Upper Alsace

BASLET, Switzerland, Via Rome, Sept. 3.—

The Germans have abandoned their movement toward the great French fortress of Belfort as the result of the Russian offensive movement in Eastern Prussia. The great army of 150,000 German and Austrian troops which crossed the Rhine several days ago accompanied by a large number of heavy Krupp siege guns, has been withdrawn from Alsace and started for the north through Metz to replace the German troops withdrawn from the lines to the north of Lorraine and in the department of Muerthe-et-Moselle.

The French are now complete masters of Alsace. There are only about 40,000 German reservists left in the upper part of the province and it is expected that a French offensive movement against them will be undertaken.

The army that was brought from the Black Forest and which was designed originally to attempt to reduce Belfort was one of the strongest yet placed in action by the Germans. It comprised several of the crack divisions and was made up of two Austrian army corps and three German. The siege guns were of the newest type from the Krupp factory, the same type as was so successfully used at Namur and the French forces at Belfort were seriously threatened when the order for the withdrawal was issued.

FORTY-EIGHT HOURS TO TELL TALE

If Germans Keep Up the Strength of Attack They Will Be at Gates of Paris

TELL OF FIGHTING YESTERDAY

Say Germans Attacked with Entire Force and Failed in Attempt to Crush Allied Defense

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail says that after three days of fighting the Germans have occupied the army corps center at Amiens. That this may be so is not doubted here, as there are no permanent fortifications there.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Following the continued successes of the German invading army, it was officially announced that the seat of the government immediately would be transferred to Bordeaux, situated in the extreme southwestern part of the country. This city can be captured by the Germans only after a long march. The French fear the Germans will reach Paris in a few days. Despite the transfer of the capital to Bordeaux, it is declared that the situation at the front shows improvement today. The ferocity of the Ger-

Capital in 1871

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The transfer of French seat of government today from Paris to Bordeaux makes that city the capital of the nation for a second time. Shortly after the founding of the third republic, the government moved to Tours in 1871. When the Prussians moved on Tours, the government moved to Bordeaux.

Bordeaux is 359 miles southwest of Paris and has a population of 240,000. It is located on the west bank of the Garonne, 60 miles inland, and is the center of the Medoc wine growing district.

man assault on the French British left wing is decreasing. There are said to be evidences of exhaustion on the part of the enemy.

Although the retreat of the allies has been faster than was anticipated it is explained today, that the French-British position is infinitely stronger than it was three days ago. Fresh troops have been detached from the extreme French right and, with reserves they are now supporting the troops that have been bearing the brunt of the fighting since last Saturday.

The next forty-eight hours probably will prove decisive insofar as the actual fate of Paris is concerned. If the Germans can push forward as far in that time as they have in the last two days, they will be in contact with outer lines of the capital's defenses.

Although the government has been moved to Bordeaux and the records of the nation have also been sent there the United States embassy will remain here. The embassy is neutral territory. It will not be attacked.

All of the wounded in Paris hospitals who were in condition to be moved are being sent away today to temporary hospital camps.

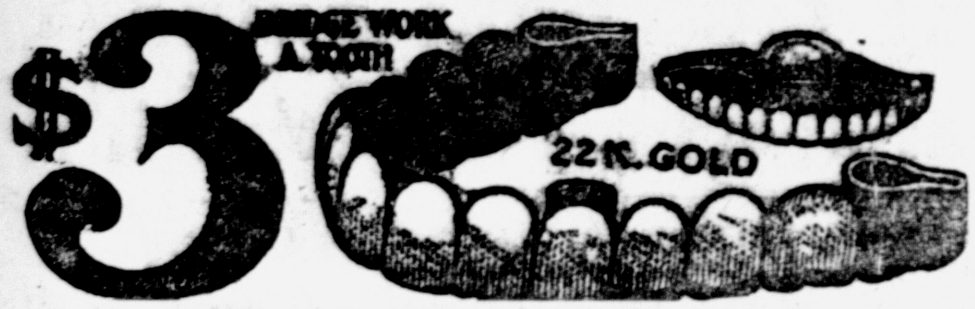

It is certain whether Paris is besieged or not, it will be the center of the pivotal operations planned to follow any further retreat of the allied left wing. There is no doubt that the Germans plan a siege. Their great thirty ton Krupp guns, which were so serviceable at Namur are being moved south. Instead of horses the Germans are using enormous traction engines.

The fact that a supreme effort made Tuesday and Wednesday to crumple up the allied left, and drive it back on the center, failed, has greatly added to the confidence of the military experts here. They declare the Germans brought into action their entire strength and that the allies mowed them down like

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Yellow Children And How They Pass Their Time.

Ah Sneeze Has to Look Up to Her Brother In Everything.

"I HAVE told you about the black and the brown Eskimo children," said daddy as the children came running to him for the evening story, "but I haven't told you of the yellow children."

"Who are the yellow ones, daddy?" asked Evelyn, but Jack, looking very superior and wise, said: "I know who daddy means. He means the Chinese children."

"Jack is quite right," answered daddy. "The yellow or Chinese children are interesting, and the names their parents give to them are so funny that I will give them some funny names of my own. We'll call the boy Little Ah Choke and his sister Little Ah Sneeze, and those names are no funnier than some of the names they have."

"Little Ah Choke looks like a funny little old man with his loose blouse and his flowing pants, knee high, that look like the suit worn by the runners in the college that Jack likes to watch so well, and Little Ah Sneeze is dressed like her mamma in a loose thin waist and a sort of bloomer skirt."

"Little Ah Choke's coarse black hair has started to queue at the back of his head, just like his daddy's, though it's much shorter yet, of course, and he imitates his daddy when he thinks of it and tries to do as he does, just like black boys or brown boys or any other boys."

"Ah Choke's papa is what they call a coolie, a laborer. He trots all day, carrying by handles one end of a big chair in which sits some man or woman visitor to China seeing the sights of Canton, the big city where the Ah Chokes live. For all this work the papa gets only what would amount to 2 or 3 cents in American money, and he has many children, but he can support them, for living is cheap there. They live mostly on rice and fish and eat with chopsticks."

"Little Ah Sneeze has to look up to her brother in everything, for in China girl babies don't count for much, and when they grow to be women they have to work very hard. Aren't you glad you do not live over in China, Evelyn?"

Evelyn laughed as daddy continued his story. "There are ever so many children in China, whole troops of them, and with the daddies and mammas there are millions of people in that country, so that there isn't enough room for them all on the land. So many of them have to live on houseboats, which are anchored out in the great rivers. Children are born there, grow up, work, marry and bring up their own children right on those boats, just as their parents did before them. Now run to bed, kiddies."

CZAR OF RUSSIA, WITH HIS WAR COUNCIL

Czar of Russia, Nicholas II., after a solemn proclamation to the Russian people given in the old Kremlin of Moscow, has joined the army operating on the German and Austrian borders under supreme command of his uncle Grand Duke Alexis. The Russian war office reports a series of advantages won over the Austrians in the province of Galicia and the capture of many cities in Eastern Prussia. Koenigsberg and Dantzig are directly menaced and the Kaiser will soon have to withdraw a good portion of his troops now fighting in Belgium and send them against the immense Russian invading force. The Czar as a strategist is an unknown quantity and it is doubtful if he will take active command, his sole presence being enough to give his troops an extra dose of fighting spirit.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

DELINQUENT

BY HARMONY WELLES

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

David Greer had no idea, when he rented a small villa in a Long Island suburb, that he was going to be tied down to restrictions. Certainly he would have looked further for his tiny cottage had he realized the disturbing fact.

David was not fond of gardening and could not assume an interest in his property, even if all his neighbors did glow darkly at him for his lack of concern regarding the bit of yard in front of his house.

He knew that he was the black sheep in the suburb and that another tenant was far more desirable than he was. David did not, however, worry his head over his shortcomings, nor did he feel in any way upset over the disgraceful aspect of his garden, when on every side of him were exquisite specimens of artistic home gardening. Flowers rioted in every available foot of the small properties in the suburb in which David had rented a cottage.

"Thornton cottage is a blot on our village," was the general comment among the suburban home owners, but neither David nor his old housekeeper did anything to remove the blot.

Mrs. McPherson felt that she had enough to do in looking after David's socks and cooking him, tasty meals and keeping the inside of his house tidy, without bothering about the outside.

It was not until the neighbors talked of signing a petition for having him ejected that Drucilla Everet took a hand in the affairs of David Greer.

"It is a shame," she said to her mother, and there were red spots in her lovely cheeks, "that a man should be put out of his cozy little home merely because he doesn't take care of his garden. All people can't be expected to be mad about flowers. I won't sign the petition, for one."

"Nor I," coincided Drucilla's mother. She did not think it necessary to inform her daughter that admiration of David Greer's stalwart good looks was in a measure responsible for her antagonism toward the neighbors who would evict him. "He has as much right to his faults as any of us."

So it was over the low back fence that Drucilla told David's housekeeper all about the suburbanites' intentions regarding her master.

"They'll no' eject my bonnie laddie," expostulated Mrs. McPherson in righteous Scotch wrath. "He's that busy in his office the day that he's no time to be pottering about a garden."

"That's just the way I feel," said Drucilla, while she smiled her sweetest smile into Mrs. McPherson's motherly eyes. "I was wondering," she continued coaxingly, "whether or not Mr. Greer would let me plant his front garden for him. I love flowers so much, and our own space is very tiny." She waited breathlessly for her answer.

There was grave doubt in the woman's eyes, coupled with a desire not to thwart the charming girl in the sunbonnet.

"He'd no' like to have a girl make his garden for him—that I ken," she said finally; "but if you could manage without him knowing who did it—"

Drucilla did not allow her to finish, but smiled happily. "That will be lovely! I can get to work when he leaves for the office in the morning, and when he returns! Oh—I will have a perfect bower of flowers to greet him."

"Mind you don't let him see you," cautioned Mrs. McPherson. "He'd be that angry with me I'd surely lose my place." She well knew that David could not manage without her, since she had been with him since cradle days, but she considered it well to warn the girl into secrecy.

Fortune favored Drucilla to a remarkable degree. David Greer was called away on a short business trip and while the cat was away the mouse did certainly play. The small garden was dug up and fertilized and planted with blooming flowers that were well nourished and tended before David returned.

Drucilla was standing behind the casement curtains of her own tiny cottage when the delinquent came back to his native suburb and saw the transformation that had been wrought. His eyes took on a hint of flame and his square-jawed profile ascended. Drucilla watched these warlike signs and her heart beat rapidly. She did not stop to realize that David would not know who had done the deed, and that his wrath would not find vent on her own head.

"Mag," he said as he entered the house and found Mrs. McPherson awaiting him, "what person has assumed the right to put my garden in order?"

The old Scotchwoman had never seen her master so angry, and she strove to pacify him in her usual wheeling manner, but for once David failed to respond. When she told him of the threat of eviction and the kindly interference of a neighbor he was only the more angry.

"I believe I am paying for this property, Mag, and no one shall dictate to me whether I have a garden or not. I will pull every one of those flowers up by the roots and fling them in the street. These people will see whether or not I can run my own affairs." He strode out of the house as if he would suit action to words.

But David Greer was not the kind of man to pull up innocent flowers and destroy them, especially when those flowers exhaled delicious odors that calmed his temper. The pansies seemed to be gazing pleadingly up at him from their dewy beds and the nasturtiums clamored joyfully as if delighted with life over the fence that divided the garden from the one next door.

While his wrathful glance traveled with unwilling admiration along the row of orange and red blossoms that peeped over the fence David became aware of a most wonderfully lovely head bobbing about somewhere behind the nasturtiums. He caught a delighted breath. Neighbors were not so bad after all. He looked again and found Drucilla's eyes fixed more or less wistfully upon him. Again David breathed quickly.

"Are you awfully angry?" David supposed he was dreaming, but he answered the sweet voice that had questioned him.

"I was," he said. "I am not now."

Drucilla smiled and David wondered whether it was the girl's smile or the advent of flowers into his garden that suddenly made the world a glorious place to live in.

"There is a most shockingly barren piece of garden at the back," he told her, "perhaps you would like to do that up as well. We could cut a gate through the fence and you could put some of those pink roses over the arch."

"Oh, I should love that," laughed Drucilla.

Inside Thornton cottage, Mrs. McPherson smiled knowingly.

"I'll be cooking for two before the roses bloom," was her inward comment.

Outside David and Drucilla continued to discuss the gate that were to make two gardens one.

SPARTA, Wis., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—A determined fight against the passage of a resolution for street lights, introduced at a special council meeting last night, is expected at the next meeting of the council.

The resolution calls for the placing of curb lights, similar to those in use on Water street, in the block between Water and Court streets. The resolution was referred to the committee on lighting. When it is reported out, it is understood that some of the councilmen plan to make a fight on it, alleging that the city has spent all it can afford for improvements this year.

SPOTLIGHTS

RICHEST WOMAN IN WORLD

Have you ever seen Hetty Green, the richest woman in the world, as well as one of the most eccentric? It is and has been the general impression that the old lady's greed for wealth in the accumulation of railroad stocks and United States government bonds had long converted her into a semblance of a human octopus.

No greater injustice has ever been accorded a good, God-fearing and charitable woman. In life, Hetty Green is at heart a womanly woman of motherly tenderness, loving the pure things of life that appeal to every good woman.

For the first time on the stage, the character of Hetty Green is personified in the character of Aunt Gretchen Van Zandt. Porter Emerson Browne, in his dramatization of "The Spendthrift" has provided in the character of Aunt Gretchen Van Zandt a personification of Hetty Green, whose motherly interest during the last twenty years of her life afforded him the means of knowing her as she really existed.

"The Spendthrift," under the management of C. S. Primrose, will be the offering at the La Crosse theater on Sunday, September 6, matinee and night.

"THAT PRINTER OF UDELL'S"

The most successful and popular plays of today are those dramatized from widely read novels. It is a natural desire of the reader of an interesting book to follow the reading by going to a theater and seeing portrayed the characters that he has followed through the book. Harold Bell Wright's stories seem to be especially well adapted for dramatization, his characters being strongly and sharply drawn. "The Shepherd of the Hills" met with an overwhelming success. "That Printer of Udell's" has proved just as successful in every respect. Messrs. Gas-kill and MacVitty, the producers, have again proved their wisdom in selecting "That Printer of Udell's."

The dramatization of the story, unlike so many efforts in this line, does not spoil the narrative by leaving out important and critical situations and scenes, but follows the book carefully. At the La Crosse theater Monday, Labor day, with a special matinee for that date.

Laying the Atlantic Cable.

Cyrus Field made fifty voyages across the Atlantic, and worked incessantly for thirteen years before he accomplished his great task of laying a cable over the ocean. After several failures and the output of $6,000,000 things looked discouraging until July of 1866, when a third cable, 2,000 miles long, was coiled on the Great Eastern, and success was assured.

Aviator and His Feet.

"If one did not know better," remarked an observant man, "he would be inclined to believe an aviator is akin to a centipede. Not long ago I was telling a friend that a certain airman had dropped 45 feet. 'Yes?' he asked. 'And how many has he left?'"

THE BULL MOOSE UNMASKS

With much interest we have read
the two most recent issues of Collier's Magazine, a bull moose publication. They show the trend of bull moose thought on the trust question,
and the probable nomination of Francis E. McGovern for United States senator makes them pertinent in Wisconsin.
"The Best Laid Plans" is the first of the Collier's editorials. From it we call the following sentences:
If the people look with almost friendly tolerance on Cannon's efforts to come back from Danville, it is largely because they know his power for evil is gone. The vote that Foraker got and that Penrose will get is founded somewhat on the same spirit—a spirit which would express itself in contemporary American as:
"Oh, let 'im up; he's all bloody."
The second editorial, immediately following, is entitled, "Bailey." Excerpts are selected as follows:
For such harm as we think he ever did, his teeth are pulled. Standard Oil will never retain him again. All that sort of thing is completely in the past of American politics. Intellectually, Bailey is needed. * * * We wish Bailey well.
Speaking of the decision of the court dissolving the "Harvester Trust," Collier's editorial caption in the same issue inquires, "Is This Best?" We quote a paragraph:
Are we, after all, doing the right thing with respect to our large units of industry? For ourselves we confess to a feeble-minded indecision.

When we talk with Louis Brandeis or read his books we think he is right.
When we read the admirable book of Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, we think the encouraging of big units—with regulation—is best. In reading the decision of the court in the International Harvester case we cannot help feeling that no one of the judges had any enthusiasm for what they considered it necessary, under the law as it stands, to do, nor believed in the law they enforced.

The Collier's quotes an editorial
which its editor published five years ago:

Those who fight consolidation in this era start with a large handicap.
Why not accept it and regulate it?
In convenience, in economy, in profits, everyone admits the benefits of consolidation. The essential ground for complaint is that too many of these benefits now go to the consolidators.

Under the heading, "The Curse of Small Business," immediately following the above, in the same issue Collier's tells of the injury done to the people of London, England, by the existence of seventy competing lighting and power companies.

On the opposite page, discussing
"The New Justice," Collier's commends McReynolds, President Wilson's appointee to the supreme court,
the attorney general of Diggs-Caminetti fame and of suppression of Mellen's testimony notoriety as a man who has "a disposition to stand
all the more ruggedly by his convictions in proportion as that stand is likely to cost him discomfort."

Here we have a complete argument. It consists of a plea for the return of Bailey to the senate on the plea that new conditions will prevent him repeating the disreputable business-and-political relations with the oil companies that brought him defeat; it includes the fallacious argument that monopoly is good because competition in a natural monopoly—public utility—is bad; a defense of Mr. Perkins own pet monopoly because a "conservative"
judge regretted that the law compelled him to pronounce against it;
the exhuming of a pro-trust editorial
with recantations of which its columns were later supplied; last of all,
support for a judge who shall have the hardihood to uphold monopoly
in the face of hostile public opinion.

Bailey, Cannon, Penrose, Foraker
back because they are "able" and bad as they are, they can not repeat their specific personal outrages; a "firm" court to sustain them—really,
the bull moose trail seems to be another way around to "the good old days."

THE PORK "BAR'L" IS PLAIN GRAFT

Congressman James A. Fear must have felt a thrill of justification for his attack upon the rivers and harbors bill as the most stupendous waste ever countenanced by government, when publicity was given the following letter, written to a congressman by J. M. Wirth, a Fort Worth, Texas, business man:

I believe more than $1,000,000
has been appropriated for Trinity river. If any senator in Washington can find this particular river at this time, he can do more than we can.
The Trinity neither runs, creeps nor crawls through Dallas; in fact it does not even hesitate. Recently an electric railway tried to lease the bed
of the river for an interurban line.
The Trinity river is the joke of Texas, and today it is as dry as a bone,
but we never fail to get an appropriation for it.

Talk about "pork!" The packers' trust will never acquire a monopoly
while congress is in session.

Take One Guess.
Susie's grandmother had been scolding her. Susie felt indignant, but had been taught never to "answer back."
However, she got even. Taking her kitten in her arms, she thus soliloquized: "Kitty, I wish one of us was dead this minute. Not you kitty, nor me, kitty, but one of us three in this room."

What has become of the o. f. boy who pointed with pride to the fact that he had broken his arm three times.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Contented
Let the dogs of war all growl,
Let them grumble, let them howl,
Let ambitious monarchs scowl,
Let them rave and tear their hair,
Here and there and everywhere,
For all we care.
We've peace to spare.
In this fair land we would abide.
We do not care to have our hide
Shot full of holes, just like a sieve;
We'd rather live.

A coward? Yes, perhaps that's so.
But still, we'd rather live, you know,
And stay right here and toil and slave
Than go and fill a hero's grave.
We're pretty well content now,
thinks,
We do not care to join the ranks
And dodge the flying shot and shell
FOR WAR IS HELL.
You know what old man Sherman
said.
We'd rather be a boob—well fed,
THAN A HERO WHO IS DEAD.

Returned Tourists
"Are you going to the Wallerby
reception tonight?"
"No. The Twobles will be there,
so I declined my invitation."
"Why do you object to the presence of the Twobles?"
"I don't object to their presence particularly, but I have already heard them tell the story of their escape from Berlin ten or twelve times and I don't feel equal to another recital."
—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Scored Off His Dad
He was the son of a worthy manufacturer and had just returned from abroad. His father, a brusque, matter-of-fact man, surveyed his offspring, who was togged out in the latest London fashion, with distinct disapproval. "Young man," he blurted out, "you look like an idiot."
Just at that moment and before the youth had time to make a fitting reply, a friend walked in.
"Why, hello, Billy. Got back, have you?" he exclaimed. "By George, how much you resemble your father."
"So he's been telling me," said Billy quietly.—Boston Transcript.

Ye Fairy Admitted It
The conversation at a recent social affair turned to frank admissions
when Judge Joseph H. Gaskill of Mt.
Holly was reminded of an incident
that happened in Camden.
A short time ago, the judge said,

"I was passing through the Change of Life and had pains in my back and side and was so weak I could hardly do my housework.
I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. I will recommend your medicine to my friends
and give you permission to publish my testimonial." —Mrs. LAWRENCE MAR-TIN, 12 King St., Westbrook, Maine.

Manston, Wis. — "At the Change of Life I suffered with pains in my back and loins until I could not stand. I also had night-sweats so that the sheets would be wet. I tried other medicine but got no relief. After taking one bot-le of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use for six months. The pains left me, the night-sweats and hot flashes grew less, and in one year I was a different woman. I know I have to thank you for my continued good health
ever since." —Mrs. M. J. BROWNELL, Manston, Wis.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots
and herbs, is unparalleled in such cases.

A pretty young woman from Weno-nah was visiting friends in the aforesaid Camden burg when she was prevailed upon to assist at a bazar. The duty assigned her was to juggle sweets in the candy booth. Eventually two young men rambled in that direction.
"How much is this candy?" asked
one of the young men, pointing to a box on the booth.
"One dollar," was the prompt response of the Weno-nah girl. "If you don't care for that we have some for 99 cents."

"Say, aren't you a little dear?"
asked the young man.
"Well," unhesitatingly replied the pretty one, "that's what all the Weno-nah boys say."

What They Expected
"Ma, better lock up the bath room
and get out the old wooden tubs—"
"Why, pa—"
"And hide the phonograph and those $7 records."
"For goodness sakes—"
"And while you're at it you'd better put away your fancy dishes and get out those old blue things you hate so."
"What's getting into you, pa?"
"We've got a few summer boarders coming here from the city and we've got to give 'em the sort of country life they expect."

Provided for New Bobby had been taught to remember all his relatives when he said his prayers. One night, as he knelt at his mother's knee, he did not mention the name of a favorite aunt.

"Why, Bobby," said the mother,
"you didn't say God bless Aunt Beatrice and make her happy."
"Well, mother," replied the little boy, "I don't have to say that any more. Aunt Beatrice's engaged."

A Little Dew On It
He was an ardent lover, an Irish lover and a practically penniless lover. It was St. Patrick's eve and in his hand he bore a pot of real Irish shamrock.

"They were raised on the ould
sod," he said, as he presented the pot to Biddy, "raised on the ould sod of Ireland."
"Sure, now Murphy," cried his lady in delight, "how really sweet of ye. How perfect they are and how fresh. Sure, I do believe that there is a little dew on 'em yet."

Murphy flushed slightly. "Beggorra,
I know there is," he reluctantly confessed Murphy, "but praise Heaven
it'll be paid tomorrow."

Perhaps Bill Atkins had had his fill of solitude during that cold winter—or perhaps he was hungry for another hour of the little girl's company. Nothing, however, showed his satisfaction as he entered her chamber. "Here I am," he announced, seating himself on the bench.
This was his only greeting.
"Is it drug or dragged?" demanded Lahoma.
"Dragged."

"Why don't God send me a little girl to play with, after me asking for one every night, all winter?"
"Don't understand God's business," replied Atkins briefly.
"I puts it this way," Brick spoke up: "God's done sent one little girl,
and it ain't right to crowd Him too far."

"Will I be all they is of me as long as I live?"
"Nobody won't never come to live
in these plains," Brick declared, "unless its trappers and characters like us. But we'll stay by you, won't we, Bill Atkins?"

Atkins looked exceedingly gruff and shook his head as if he had his doubts about it. "You'll have to be taken to the States," he declared.
"But what would become of Brick?"

"Well, honey," said Brick, "you want to take your place with people in the big world, don't you?"
"Oh, yes," cried Lahoma, starting up and stretching her arm toward the window. "In the big world—
yes! That's the place for me, that's where I want to live. But what will become of you?"

"Well," Brick slowly answered,
"the rock pile, t'other side the mountain is good enough for me. Your mother sleeps under it."
"Oh, Brick!" She caught his arm. "You wouldn't die if I went away, would you?"

"Why, you see, honey, they wouldn't be nothing left to go on. I'd just sort of stop, you know—but it wouldn't matter—out there in the big world, people don't remember very long, and when you're grown you wouldn't know there'd ever been a cove with a dugout in it, and a window in the wall and a Brick Wil-lock to carry in the wood for the fire."

"I'll always remember—and I won't go without you. He could go with me, couldn't he, Bill?"
"I suspicion he has reasons for not," Atkins observed gravely.
"I has, and I shall never go back to the States."

"Then what's the use civilizing
me?" demanded Lahoma mournfully.
"I want you to enjoy yourself.
And when I'm old and no-count,
you'd need somebody to take care
of you—and you'd go fully equipped and ready to stand up to any civilized person that tried to run a bluff
on you."

"But, oh, I want to go—I want to go out there—where there ain't no plains and alkali and buffalo camps—where they's pavements and police-men and people in beautiful clothes. I don't mean now, I mean when I have got civilized." She drew herself up proudly. "I wouldn't go till I was civilized, till I was like them." She turned impulsively to Brick: "But you've got to go with me when I go! I'm going to stay with you till I'm fit to go, and then you're going to stay with me the rest of my life."

"Am I fit to go with her?" Brick appealed to Bill Atkins.
"You ain't," Bill replied.
"I ain't fit," Brick declared firmly. "I'm a-going to fatten you; but it's too late to work on me; and besides, if they was time enough, it ain't to the grain of my nature. I knows all I wants to know, which if little or much is enough for me. And I wouldn't be fit to go with you into the big world and cut a figger in it, which couldn't be no figger but a figger naught. And Atkins who knows more than me, he says the same."

The tears were in Lahoma's eyes.
She looked from one to the other,
her little face deeply troubled. Suddenly she grabbed up her books and started toward the stove. "Then this here civilizing is going to stop,"
she declared.

"Lahoma!" Brick cried in dismay.
"Yes, it is—unless you promise to stay with me when I go to live in the big world."

"Honey, I'll promise you this:
When you are ready to live out there I'll sure go with you and stay with you—if you want me, when the time comes."

Lahoma seized his hand, and jumped up and down in delight.
"It's a safe promise," remarked
Bill Atkins dryly.

A Division of Labor

Very newly wed they were. They were also very happy. Quite inexperienced and somewhat silly. Besides, they had a new home and a
"cabbage patch."
"Maise, dearest," he said. "I've been in the garden and I saw some asparagus ready for cooking. You shall have the pleasure of gathering
the first fruit of the season."

She would love to, but she wasn't expert in horticulture and didn't want to "let on." If she went alone
she might commit some egregious blunder.
"I tell you what, Edwin," exclaimed the girl-wife, enthusiastically,
"we'll go out together. You shall pluck it and I will hold the ladder."

To Mend Furniture.

Cracks in furniture should be filled with beeswax. Soften the beeswax until it becomes like putty, then press
it firmly into the cracks, and smooth
the surface over with a thin knife.
Sandpaper the surrounding wood, and work some of the dust into the bees-
wax. This gives a finish to the wood, and when it is varnished the cracks will have disappeared. Putty used in the same way soon dries and falls out.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life.
Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.
The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.
Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Admiral de Ruyter—Greatest of Holland's Sea Captains

LIKE our own Paul Jones, de Ruyter knew no such word as surrender. His life from boyhood up was one constant battle against the enemies of his country. He defeated the proud English navy in two wars. One of his sea battles with the English fleet lasted four solid days, and ended with the advantage resting with de Ruyter. Later he fought several great naval duels against the combined English and French fleets, and while his victories were not decisive, he won for Holland undying glory. The great de Ruyter abhorred tyranny of every kind, just as do the Hollanders of to-day. When prohibitory enactments are proposed to those of the blood of Holland they vote to a man against it. They are wherever found unalterably opposed to any legislation which would make the many suffer for the faults of a few. Hollanders know that there is no evil in the barley brews and light wines of their fathers—EVIL ONLY IS IN THE MAN WHO MISUSES THEM. In America we have thousands of these splendid people, and Personal Liberty always obtains where they reside. For 57 years Anheuser-Busch have enjoyed the trade of those of Holland blood because every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the honest brewing of Barley-Malt and Hop brews. It is not to be wondered that 7,500 people are daily required to keep pace with the natural demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles. ANHEUSER-BUSCH-ST. GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. Chas. A. Beyschlag, Druggist, 503 Main street.

AUSTRIANS FALL BACK IN DISORDER

Russians Declare Francis Joseph's Men Are Retreating to San River

Sortie Fails at Konigsburg

Germans Sally Forth from Walls but Are Beaten Back with Heavy Loss

PETROGAD, Russia, Sept. 3.—Routed with heavy loss, the main Austrian army was reported today falling back in disorder on its first line of fortifications behind Lemberg. It is expected a second stand will be made along the defenses of the San river. The Austrian line was reported to extend from the Carpathian mountains, between the headwaters of the Dniester and the San, along the San nearly to Annapol.

The Austrian force left in Russian Poland was the only part of the line that has held, and it was today being subjected to enormous pressure.

As a result of the last eight days of fighting, five of the crack Austrian army corps, the Third, Seventh, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth have practically been annihilated. Their reserve supplies of ammunition, 150 guns of all calibres, field equipment and supplies have been captured. Thousands of prisoners, including many officers, have been captured.

German Sortie Repulsed

The German garrison of Konigsburg attempted a sortie in force against the Russian forces which have isolated the citadel. They were driven back with heavy losses. The official reports issued today describe the situation everywhere as "satisfactory." The Russian army at the front is being constantly reinforced from the army mobilized at the interior centers, and the two corps, wiped out in the fighting in east Prussia last week, have been replaced with fresh troops.

BRAKEMAN HIT BY BRAKE BEAM

Fred. Schweigert, Burlington brakeman, received a painful wound under the right eye yesterday afternoon when a brake beam struck him. The accident occurred one mile north of DeSoto. LA CROSSE PROOF

Should Convince Every La Crosse Reader

The frank statement of a neighbor, telling the merits of a remedy. Bids you pause and believe. The same endorsement By some stranger far away Commands no belief at all. Here's a La Crosse case. A La Crosse citizen testifies. Read and be convinced.

J. H. Lutiger, 608 S. Eighth St., La Crosse, Wis., says: "I was advised to use Doan's Kidney Pills when I was suffering from hard, dull backaches and headaches. Soon after taking this remedy, I found that it was just the one I needed. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and I am always glad to do so."

The above statement must carry conviction to the mind of every reader. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Lutiger had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c, all stores. ANTWERP PREPARES TO RESIST SIEGE

Non-combatants Leave the City and Food Supplies Are Brought Into Place

EXPECT AID FROM THE BRITISH

Believed English Troops Will Be Sent to Help Defend if Necessity Requires

ANTWERP, Via The Hague, Sept. 3.—Antwerp is ready for an extended siege. The decree ordering from the city not officially registered went into effect today. Many of the refugees have left, most of them proceeding to Holland. Others are to be sent to England in the near future.

The city is calm. King Albert and the general staff are in almost constant consultation. The plan for the defenses are complete. The sensational reports circulated in Holland that the forts are undermined and that many of the defense guns have not been placed in position is indignantly denied.

That there exists a complete understanding between the Belgian and the British general staff is considered certain. While details naturally are withheld, there is a general belief that should it be necessary the troops will be sent direct to Antwerp to aid in the city's defense. They could easily be brought in by steamer, and even though the city is invested by the Germans, it will be impossible for them to bottle up the harbor, while the British fleet controls the North Sea.

Every effort is being made to increase the food supply. Special steamers have brought in large quantities during the last few days and all has been taken over by the government. Up to the present the canal dykes have not been opened. This will be reserved as the last move and will be resorted to only when the German siege trains are reported approaching.

NOTED GENERAL IN CHARGE OF PARIS
PARIS, Sept. 3.—That Paris is expecting at least a partial siege was emphasized today when it was announced that Gen. Gallieni, who was appointed military governor of Paris last Saturday, has been given supreme authority over the entire defenses of Paris. He will not be interfered with by either the general staff or by Gen. Joffre, but will conduct the defensive operations as he sees fit.
Gen. Gallieni, although long past the retirement age, was kept on the active list by special order because of his rare ability. He is a veteran of the Franco-German war and also saw service in Africa, Tonquin and Madagascar. As a strategist he is declared to stand in a class by himself.

Buildings Where Zeppelin Airship Dropped Bombs in Antwerp

This view of Antwerp looking toward the North sea, shows the part of the city in which the German Zeppelin dropped bombs killing a dozen or more innocent persons. For two nights the city was bombarded and many buildings were destroyed. It was believed the Zeppelin was endeavoring to strike the royal palace and wipe out King Albert and his family.
The low land shown in the photograph is the ground which would be flooded in case of a siege by the German army. The defense of the city has been so arranged that the forts will protect it in front while approach would be cut off from the rear by flooding the flat lands with about two feet of water.

LONDON, By Mail to New York, Sept. 3.—When the British expeditionary army landed on French soil, the natives went wild with joy and women overwhelmed "Tommy Atkins," with kisses. Former La Crosse Man and Son-in-Law of George B. Rose Is Safe in London

Louis Kuesn, son-in-law of George Rose, Sr., La Crosse jeweler, is safe and sound in London, and was not drafted for the German army. A message says Kuehn and his family had an exciting trip through France on their way from Berlin to England. Kuehn is expected to sail for the United States Saturday.

With his brother-in-law, Walter Rose, Kuehn left in the early summer for a trip through Europe. Kuehn never took out naturalization papers in the United States, and it was thought by his friends that through the fact that he could not show them, Germany could force him to stay.

Kuehn is president of the Milwaukee Corrugating company. He formerly lived in La Crosse and has many friends here.

wheat with their artillery and rapid fire guns. The German artillery fire was excellent and caused heavy casualties in the allied ranks but the German rifle fire was poor. The German charges were marked with the utmost heroism on the part of the Germans but they could not withstand the withering rain of bullets from the allied rifles and the artillery.

The military is in complete control of the city today.

All of the forts are completely manned with the picked forces selected for their defense. Within the city martial law prevails. Prefect of Police Hennier, who has been in ill-health, resigned.

Paris Awaits Germans

Paris waits for the Germans. There is little doubt in anyone's mind that the invading forces will strike at the northern forts. But no complete investment of Paris is possible, in the opinion of the military experts. They insist that to isolate the capital would be too great a task even for the wonderful fighting machine that has hacked its way to within forty miles of Paris.

That the government expects this action was shown when an official order was issued today placing General Gallieni in supreme command of the entire defense of Paris. He will be in complete charge of the defense, independence both of the general staff and General Joffre, commander in chief. The latter will continue to direct the field operations.

Says Lines Hold

The only official word from the war office today was the declaration by General Gallieni that the French lines still hold.

"Every attempt of the enemy to break through at any point in the north has been blocked," said the general. "The German center has thrown its entire weight against our lines and has been unable to make the slightest impression."

The general said the enemy gathers up the French and British wounded with their own and gives them the best of care. It is stated that today's fighting has been general, but the fierceness of the German assault has been considerably lessened.

Cavalry Battle On

The French left and the German right are still engaged, the Germans throwing their greatest weight on an allied line that extends, roughly speaking, from just south of Montdidier to Roye and to Noyon. The German cavalry had swept south to the neighborhood of Compiègne and Soissons and has been engaged for forty-eight hours with the united British-French cavalry divisions. This fighting covers a wide stretch and is reported to be chiefly skirmishing.

The fighting between Montdidier, Royon and Noyon is of the most sanguinary character. The allied line is very strongly entrenched and is heavily supported with artillery.

So far as outward indications are concerned the final line of defense will be advantageous to the allies. Roughly speaking it will take the form of a gigantic letter S. The first line will extend northeast to a point in the vicinity of La Fere. The second will extend roughly to the southeast to Rheims. The third will extend northeast again to Mezieres and the fourth southeast toward Verdun.

WILL TAJE NAME OF BENEDICTUS THE FIFTEENTH

late Cardinal Rampollo, then secretary of state, recognized his ability and promoted him to be substitute, or virtually first assistant secretary of state. Pope Pius X in 1907 appointed him archbishop of Bologna, Italy. There he remained as archbishop until he was created cardinal at the last consistory held early this year.

Cardinal Della Chiesa is regarded here as being a man very similar to Cardinal Rampollo. It was to Cardinal Rampollo that he owed the promotion to the office of vice secretary of state, which brought him to the attention of Pope Pius and probably enabled him to get the red hat only seven years after he had been made archbishop.

Cardinal Gibbons and O'Connell arrived in Rome at noon, just an hour after Pope Benedictus had been elected. They left Naples in an automobile at five o'clock this morning, but were too late to participate in the election of the new pontiff.

First Benedict Since 1758
"Pope Benedict XV, chosen today, is the first pope to take that name since the death of Benedict XIV in 1758," Rev. Dr. R. B. Condon said today, in discussing the election of the Sacred College.

"Like Pope Benedict XIV, the present pope was elected to the pontificate while Archbishop of Bologna. It is probable that he chose the name of Benedict as a tribute to the memory of his distinguished predecessor."

"Cardinal Della Chiesa has had great administrative experience under Pope Leo XIII and Pius X. His promotion has been steady, and he is recognized as a man of practical ability, as well as of profound scholarship, and of uncompromising devotion to the high ideals of the church."

"Pope Benedict XV has a thorough acquaintance with the Roman curia, and as archbishop of Bologna, grappled victoriously with the same difficulties and problems arising out of 'modernism,' which, on a large scale, will confront him in the papacy. Benedict XIV was one of the most able and learned of the popes."

Election Not Confirmed
No official confirmation has been received by local church authorities of the election of Cardinal Della Chiesa to the papacy according to Rt. Rev. James Schwabach, bishop of La Crosse. It is expected that a cable will be received within the next 24 hours confirming the election.

WILSON TO ASK WAR TAX FRIDAY

Will Appear Before Joint House and Senate Session Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Wilson will appear before the joint house and senate committee tomorrow afternoon, it was announced after a conference between Wilson and Majority Leader Underwood today, to ask for a war tax to raise $100,000,000.

The president's address will not suggest the means of raising this amount, it was stated. Underwood has a plan of securing the money, which he will reveal to the ways and means committee soon. He refused today to disclose any of its details, but said the bill will probably be reported in the house early next week.

The president's message will point to the $11,000,000 decrease the last month, and will argue that the treasury should be strengthened, so that there need be no withdrawal of funds from banks which need them particularly at this time on account of crop moving and in European business.

STATE OF WISCONSIN—La Crosse County—In County Court. In Re Adoption of Marin Andre, to be Marin Floris, an Infant.

It appearing by the verified petition of Mark Floris and Emma Floris, his wife, in said county, among other things, that said petitioners desire to adopt Marin Andre, an infant, as their child, for which adoption there is no consent presented by the mother, who is alleged to have deserted and abandoned said child; and said petitioners praying for the adoption of said infant;

Therefore, it is appointed and ordered, that said petition and matters therein be heard at the regular term of said court, to be held at the court house of said county, in the city of La Crosse, on the first Tuesday of October, being the 6th day of October, 1914, at the opening of the court on that day, or as soon thereafter as said petitioners can be heard;

And, it is further ordered, that notice of the time and place so appointed be given the mother of said infant and to all persons interested by publication hereof three weeks successively previous to said time in The La Crosse Tribune, a daily newspaper published in said county.

Dated August 31, 1914.

By the Court,

JOHN BRINDLEY,

CONDITIONS IN WEST GOOD SAYS POLLEYS

E. H. Polleys, Missoula, Mont., a former La Crosse man, who is here with his wife, declares that the much talked of "depression" in the west is imaginary and that conditions there are good.

He maintains that any tightness in the money market or labor shortage is due to the dictation of Wall street, heavily interested in the west, in an effort to discredit the Wilson administration.

"Politics" is also blamed by the Montana lumberman for any slump in business, he advocating that all the politicians "be locked up for ten years to give business a chance."

Mr. Polleys lived here fifteen years ago.

TO PLAY FOREIGN NATIONAL AIRS HERE

Notwithstanding the fact that the Musician's union in Chicago and in some Wisconsin cities have received orders that no foreign martial music will be played by them, the La Crosse union will continue to play the airs of the Fatherland, of France and England and other foreign nations.

Professor John Andre, director of the Majestic theater orchestra and a member of the board of directors of the La Crosse local, said today that martial music will be played here.

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

(By J. W. T. Mason.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—11 A. M.—Pierrefonds, the estate of Porthos, that portly fighting machine, member of Dumas' immortal quartet of guardsmen, has become the extreme forward point of the present area of Germany's advance on Paris. It is half way between Compiègne and Soissons, on the eastern fringe of the Compiègne forest, about forty miles northeast of Paris.

Between Compiègne, Pierrefonds and Soissons, German skirmishers are exploring the district south of the La Fere-Laon-Rheims fortified barrier, into which it is the present aim of the German strategists to rush their left and right wings, and cut off the allied forces from Paris.

The German left has not succeeded in making an appreciable impression on the allies. It is probable reinforcements are being diverted from the left and are being sent to add to the main German striking power which is concentrated on the right.

There seems to be no doubt there is need for extra reinforcements on the German right. The danger of marching into a trap is becoming more pressing, the nearer the German right gets to Paris. Only the right is making progress, and to keep in touch with the other field forces, either German lines of communication in the east must be made dangerously weak or there must be abandonment of the German offensive in the eastern area of France.

A successful raid by the allies on the German communications, and the isolation of an important part of the German forces must soon become a probability if the German right alone continues to progress.

The removal of the French capital to Bordeaux has no significance bearing on the military operations in the field.

The government of France might be directed by wireless telegraphy from Paris during a siege, but the retirement to Bordeaux gives far greater certainty of control.

Paris has now become merely a military center, and not the governing head of the nation. This fact, while decreasing the importance of its capture to Germany, will not have any bearing on the present strategy of the campaign.

Bordeaux itself is quite safe from invaders, unless all France is overrun and the Germans gain an epoch-making triumph. Its capture would not be very difficult if the Germans got so far south, but that they can do so is beyond the range of present possibilities.

The services rendered by the "fourth arm"—as the aerial fleet is called—have been important. The best laid out plans of troop maneuvers have been foiled by the discoveries of the scouts.

When one is smoked up, light another. No need of an intermission.

That's the beauty of the mild Tom Moore flavor. It never "fogs" your head—never bores your taste.

The skillfully-blended filler has a full aroma but no bite. The expert hand workmanship means a free draught—every time.

If you like a dash of style in the bargain, get Tom Moore in the "Monarch" size.

EAGLES AND NELSONS TO CLASH IN SECOND GAME OF CITY SERIES

The second game of the city championship series between the Eagles and the Nelsons will be played Sunday at League park. To the Nelsons the game is all important, as the loss of it will mean the loss of the title. A win will mean a tie of the two teams, as the Eagles won the first game last Sunday in an exciting tenth inning assault. Squiers, the bulwark of the Nelsons, will throw for the North siders, while it is probable that Saubert will hurl for the Eagles.

LOG ROLLERS OF WORLD GATHER AT EAU CLAIRE

A revival of the old sport of log-rolling is on at Eau Claire. Some of the brightest lights in the sport of log spinning are on hand to take part in the big tournament scheduled for Monday, Labor day.

The tournament, which will be held on Half Moon Lake, is expected to be the biggest ever held. The world's championship in all events will be the object of competition. Log rolling, racing and trick and fancy work on the log and block will be the chief events of the meet.

William Delyea, "Jumping Jehoshaphat," whose lightning work on the rolling ball is marvelous, will be one of the shining lights of the tournament.

Fighters Wind Up Training at Wood's Gym; O'Dowd and Safo Attract Attention

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Tommy Gibbons and Bert Fagan, principals in the main bout of the card scheduled for Hudson tonight, wound up their preparations for the fight yesterday. Gibbons took a light workout at Woods' gymnasium.

Fagan went through the practically the same routine at the Hennepin avenue in Minneapolis where he has done his training.

Interest in Safo and O'owd The Mike O'Dowd-Labe Safo match, which will be staged preliminary to the headliner, is attracting almost as much attention as the main affair. O'Dowd is a St. Paul product and Safo hails from Minneapolis, which doubtless accounts for a portion of the enthusiasm displayed in the rival camps.

Shantung can boast of forty centuries of agricultural activity. It is still an agricultural province with an area of 55,000 square miles—about equivalent to that of the state of Wisconsin—with an estimated population of 30,000,000, and has been forced to a degree of intensive cultivation unknown to the farmers of the United States.

Varsity Stars Drill the Squad
Coach Horne of the high school yesterday took the high school football squad out in the field for the first time in the season. The time was spent in light practice, such as passing, catching and kicking. "Tubby" Keeler and "Mike" Hayes, Wisconsin, assisted Mr. Horne and Captain Fay with drilling the men on catching the ball on the run.

THE MINE BOSS CARRIES THE JOYFUL NEWS TO THE BOYS

TOBACCO satisfied—a clean, small chew of "Right-Cut." It's the Real Tobacco Chew.

Pure, mellow, sappy tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough. That's why men are glad to hear about "Right-Cut," and to tell the glad news to their friends in turn.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Slugging out two victories over the Phillies, Stallings' Braves crowded the Giants out of first place.

McGraw sent Rube Marquard to the rubber against Brooklyn and the port side followed in the pinch and was lambasted all over the field.

Huggins' Cards lost ground when McQuillan beat them handily in the opening clash of a double bill and Babe Adams held them to a 1-1 eleven inning tie.

Jim Vaughn lost his bearings against the Reds, his numerous passes figuring prominently in his defeat.

Vean Gregg couldn't pitch well enough to offset the numerous errors of Janvrin and the Browns grabbed the first clash of a double bill from the Red Sox. Carrigan's men slugged their way to victory in the last.

The White Sox battled their way to a tie against Walter Johnson—4 to 4.

CORK SHORTAGE

MAY HIT HERE

Somewhere between Spain and the coast of the United States is a shipment of cork wood that may influence the supply of corks in La Crosse.

J. A. Elliott of the Elliott-Loeffler company, the largest users of corks in La Crosse, is of the opinion that this country will be hard up for bottle stoppers within a few months.

Spain is the largest producer of this commodity. Prices have already gone up.

The shipment of cork was consigned to the Milwaukee cork concern which supplies La Crosse.

Chicago Grain Review.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Wheat had an excited opening today and following a forenoon of heavy buying, the prices at noon today were 13-4 to 21-4c over last night's closing figures. Indications were that the American farmer was holding his grain for still higher prices. The cable from Liverpool today was the most important bull factor, however. Liverpool reported an advance, based on information that the British government is placing large flour orders despite heavy supplies of wheat in England. Fear was expressed that Turkey might become involved in the war, tying up shipments from the Danube.

Corn buyers were active and noon found corn futures 1-18c above last night's closing prices.

Oats gained 3-8c at the start on the bulge in the other grains, but toward noon turned a shade easier. Provisions opened lower, worked higher, and then slumped again. The lower hog market inspired selling.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Wheat prices reached new high marks for the year this afternoon under a resumption of the early morning buying movement. September closed at $1.14-3/4; December at $1.18 3/8, and May at $1.25 1/4.

Corn profited 1-4 to 3-8 by the afternoon bulge in wheat and oats gained 1-2 to 5-8c.

Provisions closed at about noon prices.

The Pains of Sciatica

Dr. E. C. Underwood says that there is no expression of neuralgia which is more distressing than that known as Sciatica. The cause of this condition is usually exposure to cold and dampness. One of the most common causes is rheumatism; indeed this is so often the cause that some writers include sciatica among the varieties of rheumatism.

The treatment includes remedies to counteract the cause of the disease, as well as measures looking to the relief of pain. Whatever treatment may be employed, two things must be borne in mind—the patient must be kept as free from pain as possible and be kept as quiet as possible. One or two Anti-Kamnia Tablets should be given every two or three hours, and the patient must be warned against going out in inclement weather.

Anti-Kamnia Tablets may be obtained at all druggists in any quantity, 10c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

In Headaches, Neuralgias, and all Pains, they give prompt relief.

Neither is it the story with the punch that puts the reader or listener to sleep.

For Sallow, Blotchy, Rough or Greasy Skins

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep using cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt, making the complexion worse than ever. It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercurized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring; next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or two, and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercurized wax is procurable at any druggist's, is all you need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, here's the best possible remedy: Mix 1/2 pint witch hazel and 1 ounce powdered salicylate and use as a face bath. It works like a miracle, yet is entirely harmless.

Corns, Quit, Pains Stop, With "Gets-It"

Quit Plasters, Salves and What-Nots. After using "GETS-IT" once you will never again have occasion for asking, "What can I do to get rid of my corns?" "GETS-IT" is the first sure, certain corn-ender ever known.

Why "Suffer Yet" With Corns? Use "GETS-IT." They'll Vanish!

If you have tried other things by the score and will now try "GETS-IT," you will realize this glorious fact.

You probably are tired sticking on tape that won't stay stuck, plasters that shift themselves right onto your corn, contraptions that make a bundle of your toe and press right down on the corn. Put two drops of "GETS-IT" on that corn in two seconds. The corn is then doomed as sure as night follows day. The corn shrivels. There's no pain, no fuss. If you think this sounds too good to be true try it tonight on any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"GETS-IT" is sold in La Crosse by Columbian Pharmacy, City Book and Drug Store.
